Chapter 174

THE JAPANESE THREAT

Ed Martin lived in Japan for 15 years as a missionary. I've known him for years. He now ministers to prisoners in jails across America. The following was taken from his "Hope Aglow Newsletter", PO Box 3057, Lynchburg, Virginia 24503.

"Japan is a warrior culture. They have a 'No War' clause in their Constitution ... Our protection of Japan ... costs the US a staggering ... $1000 per US citizen annually.

"Japan ... has been shipping (automobiles) into the US in colossal numbers ... without tariff or surcharge or any kind, enabling them to under-sell our American cars. This money goes straight to Japan creating a money-glut there.

"The present day wealthy Japan ... was "made in America". ... The Japanese practically own Guam in the Pacific. They own upwards of 75% of Hawaii. They own 50% of Los Angeles, 43% of Houston, much of Texas, and piecemeal, they are buying up land, businesses and banks all over America. Multiple listings of American real estate - homes, businesses, ranches, farms, etc. are all posted daily throughout the cities and towns of Japan. A Japanese can go into a department store, look over the multiple listings along with pictures and descriptions, then with his credit cards buy property anywhere in the US as a foreign national.

"The transaction or the purchase of this US property is not registered, so we have no record of what, how much, and how extensive Japanese holdings are in our country. This contrasts sharply with the fact that the Americans cannot buy a foot of land in Japan. They protect their sovereignty ... our Government might as well not even exist for all the good they do us. ...

"It is a joke that we are 'trading partners' with Japan, because it's all one way. We trade almost nothing with Japan. They only buy our assets (America) not our products.

"When we tried to put through an 'equitable/fair trade bill' with Japan, the powerful Japanese Lobby in Washington warned our representatives 'You'd better not vote for that bill, or we'll pull our Japanese businesses out of your state and take it elsewhere and you'll get the blame.' So, our representatives voted against the bill. You may be sure, we don't dictate to Japan anything nor meddle in THEIR internal affairs. We have pampered, spoiled, and mollicoddled Japan until they can now get away with murder (genocide of the United States). They would like nothing better than to have the "Rising Sun" flag hoisted over the capitol in Washington, calling it 'Little Tokyo' and playing the Japanese Anthem, 'Kimi Ga Yo.'"

"I blame our American government for malfeasance, for not protecting the sovereignty of the US. There are governors and others throughout our country who must bear responsibility for this deplorable state of affairs. The Governor of Tennessee and the Governor of Virginia are both assisting, practically begging, the Japanese to buy our lands under the guise of bringing the US dollars back to America....

"They royally entertain the Japanese, taking them on guided-tours in Greyhound buses, wining and dining, showing them prime Real Estate, vast rolling acres of the best land in Tennessee and Virginia. The Japanese know that they have us by the throat ... and keep looking at one prime parcel after another until they have fully satisfied their voracious appetite for American properties .

"I talked with Phyllis Schlafly regarding the violations of US laws. She couldn't help me. I talked with our lawyer ... and he said that he didn't want to get involved. I talked to the lawyer for Thomas Road Baptist Church. His statement scared me. He said: 'Ed, it may already be too late to save America.' He stated further: 'It is unlikely you could find anyone in the US government who would care enough or dare enough to even become involved at all, to speak up for their country.'"

"I wrote Senator John Warner of Virginia. He didn't even answer my letter.

"America deserves chastisement for its misdeeds, but I don't believe it should be to the extent of losing our sovereignty to the Japanese who are effectively taking over America in an economic Pearl Harbor.

"There is one particularly alarming note: If the Japanese succeed in taking over America as they are now doing, the military and nuclear capability of the US will soon be at their disposal

"There are many side issues I could mention, such as the prostituting of American girls for Japanese brothels in the United States and Japan ...

"The next thing on the agenda is: the Japanese plan to build vast retirement communities for Japanese elderly wherever they want, anywhere in America. The ironical thing ... is, they don't even ask permission of the host states involved.

"By the way, Japan and American I.N.S. officials are planning to drop requirements for visas between the two countries. There again, it would be mainly a one-way flow of people, as the Japanese export their own people over here.

"I can see by our policies ... that our Leaders don't really understand the Japanese. Living among them, as we did for 15 years, gives us an advantage our leaders don't have. Donald Trump, well-known billionaire from New York, said the Japanese are the hardest to deal with because:

1) They are arrogant and greedy.

2) When you meet with them there's never just one; it's always three, six, nine, or a dozen; they always negotiate in groups. That means you are far less likely to reach an equitable deal with them. One may be sold, but not necessarily the rest of them. They always think in terms of the whole nation ...

"As of now, the Arco Plaza, the Exxon Building, the Exchange Place, the Tishman Building are all Japanese owned. Today, they are sizing up the Sears Tower in Chicago, the world's tallest sky scraper for $1.2 billion, which would be the biggest sale of a US building, ever ...

"Thirty six of our United States have offices in Tokyo where they beg the Japanese to come to their home states for the red carpet treatment and the best of everything. The female governor of Kentucky went farther than that; she had her state purchase prime land and build access roads and everything that was necessary for the Japanese convenience - and gave it to them!

"The Japanese laugh at the way these Americans from thirty six states are in Tokyo fighting madly with each other, each vying for the Japanese attention and Yen, for their individual States....

"To the United States government, I say: You had better start thinking about the welfare of our nation FIRST!"
